Supers hope to resolve school, P&H suit

Port administrators not invited to critical meeting

BY RICHARD MEEK

County supervisors are scheduled to huddle with county school district officials this afternoon in an apparent attempt to reach a compromise in a lawsuit involving the two entities.

However, officials from the Hancock County Port & Harbor Commission, the key player in the legal tussle, had not been invited nor were notified of the meeting as of Wednesday afternoon.

The latest round of talks was triggered after School Supt. Terry Randolph made another appeal to supervisors to settle the issue out of court.

Randolph, who was not on the agenda for Monday's regular monthly meeting of the Randolph said a lengthy court dispute could delay construction of the middle school and completion would not be

DHS roof repairs to begin

BY ED LEPOMA

A general contractor has promised to proceed with roofing repairs to Hancock County's Human Services Building "as soon as the material is delivered."

Henry Martinez, president of the local GM&R Construction firm, which constructed the building in 1991, informed supervisors he intends to take care of the leaking roof.

By letter, he told supervisors Monday that his workers inspected the roof of the building on Longfellow Drive, and made the following observations:

Martinez said the inspection revealed that gasketed screws need to be checked and gaskets that have failed must be replaced. All boots (that hold up the roof) need to be checked to assure that the rubber is not dryrotted, and the sealer at several boots need to be replaced.

He said the vent hoods need to be taken up, the flanges need to be cleaned, and those that cannot be properly cleaned need to be resealed or replaced.

At the Board's urging, attorneys Gerald Gex and Ronnie Artigues were also asked to get an inspection from another area roofer, and they selected Mandal's, Inc. headquartered in Gulfport.

Vice President Chris Cooper sent a letter to the attorneys, saying his crews inspected the leaking roof Nov. 18 and found, "The overall mechanical seamed roofing system appears to be in good condition."

He said, "The water leakage that is occurring in the building, in my opinion, could be coming from pipe penetrations, curb penetrations and panel joints that were field-fabricated. It was also observed that a substantial amount of the silicone sealant used to seal the above penetrations was deteriorating and no longer forming a waterproof seal."

Cooper recommended that all penetrations be sealed with a high-grade elastomeric sealant, and he estimated a repair cost of between $7,000 and $10,000.

Apparently, Martinez has agreed to repair the roof at no additional cost to the county, but he advised: "To avoid further problems, the county should establish a roof inspection program whereby the roof is inspected twice each year and the maintenance performed

Bogging down

At least one resident who lives off Texas Flat Road complained to supervisors Monday about the perils of trying to maneuver the road while work is underway to widen and pave it and put in drainage and water. TCB Construction apologized for the inconvenience, but the county can't legally tow or pull out vehicles that get stuck in the mud. (Echo staff photo by Ellis C. Cuevas)

Authority hits snag

BY ED LEPOMA

The movement led by Bay St. Louis and Waveland to form the Hancock County Regional Solid Waste Management Authority might have hit another roadblock.

At Monday's Board of Supervisors meeting, District 3 Supervisor Lisa Cowand proposed another change that might not sit well with mayors of the two cities.

Under a draft ordinance that would create the Authority to deal with Hancock County's present and future solid waste disposal, attorney Lucien Gex had proposed expanding the present three-member Solid Waste Board to a six-member authority. The authority would be composed of the two mayors, and the president of the Board of Supervisors, who would serve staggered terms. Each body represented could also select a "designee" to serve on the Authority.

Cowand, instead, has proposed that the six-member board would be composed of "only elected officials."

When the creating legislation first came before supervisors at a previous meeting, Board of Supervisors President Phillip Moran said he didn't want to serve on the Authority. He said Cowand should con-

Sunken shrimp boat to be raised

BY ED LEPOMA

The state Department of Marine Resources has notified Hancock County Supervisors that it plans to lift a 70-foot shrimp boat that sunk last August in the Bay of St. Louis near the entrance to Jourian River.

District 3 Supervisor Lisa Cowand requested DMR assistance in late August, shortly after the boat sunk, apparently as it was being towed somewhere for repair. The Coast Guard planted a lighted buoy at the site to warn boaters.

The trawler sunk Aug. 29 and the Coast Guard and DMR were notified soon afterwards. However, according to state law, the DMR must wait at least 90 days after a sinking before it can begin the process of actually removing the vessel.

The 90-day period gives the Coast Guard and DMR time to ascertain the owner of a sunken vessel and formally request whoever owns it, to remove it.

Ownership of the vessel hasn't been verified, so the DMR decided to lift it, according to a spokesperson, now that the waiting period has passed.

Rail crossing safety addressed

BY BETSY GAGNET

The Waveland Board of Aldermen heard from residents concerned with the safety of the Coleman Avenue railroad crossing at Monday's workshop meeting.

Barbara Bowen of Waveland told the Board over 800 signatures had been collected on petitions asking that the safety of the crossing be addressed.

"We are interested in having the city pursue lights and gates at the crossing at Coleman Avenue," Bowen said.

She told the Aldermen she thought addressing the Board was "the first step in getting something done."

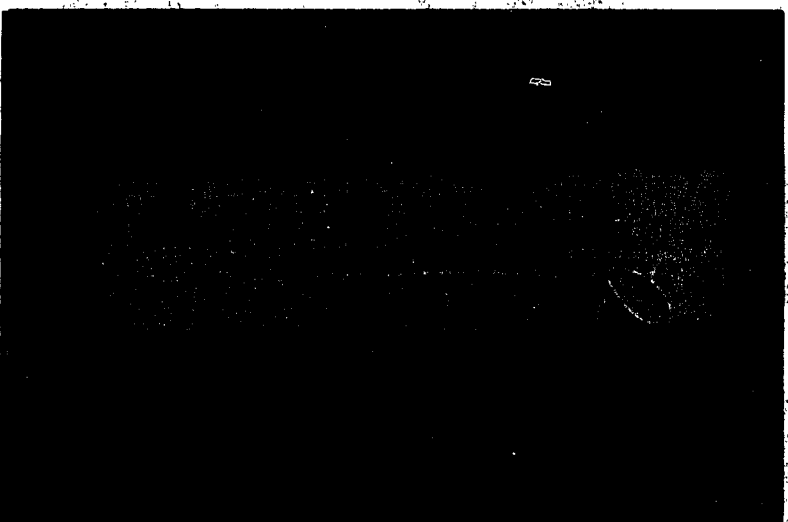

The issue of the safety of the crossing was raised following a recent train-car collision resulting in the death of Waveland resident Dorothy Elkins, 73.

City Attorney Ronnie Artigues stated at the meeting, due to notice of potential litigation resulting from the accident, it was inappropriate for city officials to discuss the matter.

Elkins' sister, who lives in Kenner, was present at the meeting and told the Board the family had no intentions of suing Waveland.

Artigues did explain that the city has no jurisdiction over the

Controlling Cholesterol

Cholesterol Test: $5 Special Cash Price

According to the American Heart Association, almost 500,000 Americans die of heart disease each year. Some risks factors are uncontrollable, such as age or a family history of heart disease.

However, other contributing factors—such as cholesterol—can be controlled and it's important to find out just as much as you can.

NorthShore Regional Medical Center is presenting Controlling Cholesterol, a free seminar set for Thursday, December 11 at 7 p.m. in the Main Dining Room, 100 Medical Center Drive. Dr. Michael Culasso, family practitioner, is the featured speaker. He will share valuable information on the signs, symptoms, management and treatment of high cholesterol levels. The presentation will end with a question/answer session.

In conjunction with the seminar, NorthShore Regional is offering a cholesterol blood test. The screening will be held at 6:30 p.m., right before the talk begins. Seating is limited, so reservations are a must. Call 646-5014 to reserve your place.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Santa received a big welcome to Hancock County Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce's Red Ribbon Christmas parade.

It was interesting to note there was a line of youngsters waiting to visit with Santa and there was a line waiting to receive an autographed photo from our own Mrs. Mississippi, Ronnie Bueche of Waveland.

It was great to see the many mothers and fathers with their youngsters who were giving their special requests for Christmas.

Oh yes! There were a few young ones who were a bit frightened by the man from the North Pole with the long sparkling white beard.

My wishes now are that all the Christmas wishes will come true for each and every child.

Christmas activities abound for the next several weeks, and I will try to mention some of them at this time.

Tonight, beginning at 5 p.m., we have the annual Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Business After Hours set at Adams Lorraine Flower Shop, 317 Ulman Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

There will be complimentary hors d'oeuvres and refreshments and many door prizes. The event is open to chamber members and guests.

Also tonight, the Diamondhead Business & Professional Association will sponsor its annual Merchants Fair from 5 to 9:30 p.m.

The event takes place at the Diamondhead Resort Inn and will include food sampling, live entertainment, many, many door prizes, of which some include big bucks, and of course the arrival of Santa at 6 p.m. with treats for the kids.

Friday night's activities turn to our neighbors across the Bay in Pass Christian.

Christmas In The Pass XIII is set from 4 to 9 p.m. and has become the Pass' traditional Open House.

Featured are a Santa parade, kiddie snowball fights, strolling carolers, bands, boat pageant and open houses at local businesses.

On Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Olde Town Bay St. Louis Merchants Associations invites you to come and spend a day in the Bay.

Merchants will have special displays, and of course Santa is set to arrive around noon. The Southern Whoopi Goldberg will be displaying their classic cars.

There will be special vendor booths along Main Street in addition to the area's merchants offering a wide variety of gift items, food and refreshments.

Then to top the evening off on Saturday at 7:30 p.m., the Coast Youth Ballet Ensemble will stage its 5th annual production of Tchaikovsky's Christmas classic, The Nutcracker, at Bay High's Auditorium. There will also be a matinee performance Sunday at 2 p.m.

Sunday will be a busy day for the area, too, with the annual Waveland Festival of Lights and the North Hancock County Business & Professional Association's annual Christmas Tree Lighting. We will tell more about those on Sunday.

So our youngsters have a lot of opportunities to get to visit with Santa and give him their wishes for Christmas. Some may want to tell him several times.

Remember to Shop at Home.

An excited Jim Culp, glider pilot, called Monday to report the sighting of a bald eagle soaring over the Stennis Airport Sunday afternoon.

Culp and his young daughter, Ariel, were at the airport where the glider planes were landing, and they looked up and saw a large bird.

Culp said after viewing the soaring bird, they were able to see that it was a large bald eagle, and that it had stayed in the area for about 30 minutes.

Culp also said on Wednesday at a meeting of experimental pilots this week, a pilot reported seeing an eagle over the Pearl River area.

Good to hear that bald eagles are in our area.

MISSISSIPPI UNIVERSITIES

Making sure we know more

Q What Mississippi university is the only HBCU in the nation to earn a bid to the NCAA Golf Tournament?

A In 1996 the Jackson State University Tiger Golf team became the nation's first HBCU to earn a bid to the National Collegiate Athletics Association Golf Tournament. The team has won 10 Southwestern Athletic Association titles, six of the last 10 National Minority Golf Championships, and four of the last six Coca-Cola Olympic Nats and Championships. Just another way Mississippi Universities are making sure we know more.

Holiday film-watching a 'wonderful' tradition, says Ole Miss professor

Watching movies with the family can be as much a holiday tradition as trimming the tree, says Jack Barbera, an English professor at the University of Mississippi who teaches courses in film.

"Just like decorating the tree, cooking and eating are rituals, certain, certain movies also become a ritual: 'This is when we watch Casablanca,'" said the Ole Miss professor. "Younger people who haven't been initiated into this ritual get to watch it with older people who have."

Those Christmas-ritual movies do not necessarily have to be about Christmas, Barbera emphasized. He said Casablanca, the 1942 classic featuring Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman, is one that epitomizes the spirit of Christmas.

"Casablanca is about self-sacrificing love," Barbera said. "Humphrey Bogart's character has to overcome his selfishness. By the end, everybody is self-sacrificing. In one sense you think, 'Wait a minute, this is a romantic movie set in Morocco.' But the whole family can watch it and initiate a discussion about love and sacrifice."

It's a Wonderful Life, the 1946 Frank Capra film starring Jimmy Stewart, also has to do with the holidays more in spirit than in subject matter (although it does end with a Christmas moment), Barbera said.

"The message is a very Christmas message, one of self-sacrifice for the community as a whole," he said of the film. "The protagonist gives up his dreams to help the community. It's a feel-good movie, and it's really the message of the New Testament."

Other Capra movies — such as Mr. Deeds Goes to Town or Mr. Smith Goes to Washington —

— also make for good holiday viewing, Barbera said.

"The have the 'capra-corn,' feel-good qualities. He was a Sicilian immigrant, more American than Americans," and thus made very pro-American values films, Barbera said of Capra.

In addition, the film professor recommends the animated musical How the Grinch Stole Christmas (written by Dr. Seuss and narrated by Boris Karloff).

"It also is about gift-giving as a dispensation of the heart, of love, not about acquiring material goods," Barbera said.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Encouraging adoption

One of the best things done by the last Congress was passage of the Adoption Tax Credit. This measure was enacted to encourage families to adopt children by helping to defray the expenses of the procedure. It was a great first step, but there is still much to do in order to make sure as many children as possible are adopted out of the nation's foster care system.

For the past 30 years, the rate of births to unwed mothers has skyrocketed. At the same time, the number of children entering foster care has also increased dramatically.

From 1986 to 1990, the number of children in foster care in this country jumped by nearly 50 percent.

To make matters worse, the percentage of children adopted out of the foster care system has steadily declined from 12 percent in 1983 to 7.7 percent in 1990.

Clearly, our country is now faced with an entire culture of illegitimate birth and foster care that is devastating for the children involved and unhealthy for the nation as a whole.

What is needed is a way to encourage more adoptions of unwanted abused or neglected children. Right now, there are close to 500,000 children in the nation's foster care system, but only 10 percent of those will be cleared for adoption.

Often, bureaucratic obstacles are keeping these kids out of loving, caring homes. That is why Congress is currently looking at legislation to change adoption laws and make it easier and more appealing for families to adopt children before they spend their formative years as wards of the foster care system.

The change in adoption over the past 20 years really tells a sad tale. In 1979, 598,000 babies were born out of wedlock in this country. Of that number, almost one in four were adopted. By 1991, 1,225,000 children were born out of wedlock, but only one in 25 was adopted.

The really amazing thing about this statistic is the fact that the number of couples seeking to adopt has greatly increased, to roughly 2 million. With so many children in need of adoption and so many couples looking to adopt, the problem is clearly institutional.

Some parts of the foster care system may actually be impeding the very mission for which it was created. In other words, instead of finding children good homes, foster care may actually be putting them back into bad situations or keeping them stuck in the system.

One of the biggest flaws of the foster care system is that the federal government reimburses states for costs on a per-child basis, which has resulted in a system which inadvertently rewards states for keeping children in foster care.

Too often, when prospective parents seek to adopt, they face hurdles that simply should not be there. In 1980, Congress drafted the Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act to require a "permanency plan" for every child entering foster care.

This was supposed to guarantee within an 18-month period a decision to either reunite the child with his biological family, place him in long-term fostering, an independent living arrangement, a group home, or make him available for adoption.

Unfortunately, studies have shown children spend, on average, 30 to 42 months in foster care before adoption is even decided on as a permanency plan. After that, government red tape can add years to the adoption effort.

There are many possible solutions to the adoption problem. The House of Representatives has already passed one plan, and others are being considered in the Senate. The important thing is that we are trying to find a way to make adoption a more frequent occurrence in this country.

Every child deserves an opportunity to be part of a loving, caring family, and adoption reform legislation is the only way some children are going to have a chance at that dream.

possible for August of 1999. Board President Phillip Moran seemed to indicate he, at least, was in a conciliatory mood.

"I'm not happy with the location at the airport," said Moran, "but I'm pro-education."

He suggested that supervisors meet with Randolph and school board members at a workshop session (Thursday) to try to iron out differences.

"Let's get this all behind us," said Moran. "We've got to settle this once and for all."

Randolph agreed to the workshop session, but said he hoped Port and Harbor officials would also be invited to come to the table.

The dispute centers around a 20-acre tract of land adjacent to Hancock High School and near Stennis International Airport. Port & Harbor officials want the land to attract an international cargo carrier to locate at Stennis. They have claimed locating another school close to the airport poses a danger to students, but also would shy away potential cargo tenants from the airport.

However, school officials are planning to build a new middle school at the site. The district had already begun eminent domain proceedings against the property owners during the summer when the P&H filed a petition to intervene.

Circuit Judge John Whitfield denied the P&H's request. The Commission has appealed to the state Supreme Court, and briefs are due by the end of the year.

If the Supreme Court rules in favor of the P&H, then the way may be paved for the P&H to buy the land even though school board officials are proceeding with plans to build the middle school at the site.

The final designs have been completed, and bids are expected to go out in late January. District officials hope the school will be completed in time for the beginning of the 1999-2000 school year. The school is expected to open with an enrollment of 900-950 students.

A Jan. 12 eminent domain hearing involving the district and property owners has been scheduled.

"We are moving forward with plans," Board President Cheryl Bennett said. "The intervention (by the P&H) has slowed us down. It's a thorn in our side."

On several occasions over the past months, school district officials have asked the supervisors, the ultimate authority over the P&H, to drop the lawsuit, but supervisors turned a deaf ear to their pleas.

When notified of the workshop, P&H Executive Director Hal Walters said the P&H has no plans to drop the case.

"We are not easing up a bit," Walters said. "Everything is full speed ahead until the board pulls the plug."

"We're in need of the land," he added. "We want to expand the international park and (are hoping) to get an international air carrier."

The property both sides covet sits north of the school, with

Road E as the western edge. Plans call for the Road E to be paved to accommodate the entrance of the new school.

P&H officials own property west of Road E back to the airport.

One scenario currently being explored is having NASA release some of its massive buffer zone west of the airport for development. Walters said discussion have begun with NASA officials but negotiations are in the preliminary stages.

He added that before the sale of any land would be completed, the P&H would authorize a survey of wetlands and how expansion of the airport would effect nearby wildlife and endangered species.

"That possibly could work," Walters said. "Either way, we will be negatively impacted by the construction of a school. We need 100 acres of land to make it work."

Bennett said she felt the suit would not slow down the projected completion date for the middle school, but lamented the cost of the pending litigation.

"We have spent way too much on legal fees," Bennett said. "I hate that. It's taking money away from the kids."

at that time.

The $1.2 million Human Services Building was constructed with bond funds in February of 1991, and a previous Board of Supervisors accepted the building, but opted not to spend money on a yearly inspection.

Health Department and other workers housed in the building claim it has leaked almost since it was opened, and came enmasse to complain about the leaking roof and other problems in the building to a new Board of Supervisors only five months after they took office.

In June of 1996, some patchwork repairs were made to the roof while supervisors and attorneys debated who might be liable for any faults in the roofing system.

railroad, which is regulated by federal law. Consequently, Waveland has no authority to force the railroad to pay for crossing bars or warning lights, according to Artigues.

Alderman Tommy Longo reported that the petitions had been attached to a packet sent to the city's U.S. delegation and a reply was expected within four to six weeks.

In other matters, Alderman Jay Fleuriot and his wife Rachel, addressed the Board concerning Fleuriot's recent application to the city's Planning and Zoning Commission for a special use variance to operate a home business.

Following two Planning and Zoning meetings during which the matter was discussed, the Commission recommended to the Board that the request be denied. The decision on the matter now rests with the Aldermen.

At Monday's workshop Fleuriot asked the Board to consider approving a variance with restrictions on what would be allowed.

The Board was expected to vote on the variance request, along with several other Commission recommendations, at Wednesday night's meeting.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1997-7

Home sales booming

As Mississippians moved into the cooler days of Autumn, home sales throughout the state heated up in October. The October Mississippi Home Sales Report, released Dec. 2 by the Mississippi Association of Realtors, shows a whopping 177 unit increase in Mississippi home sales over October of last year and a four percent increase over last month. Half of the reporting real estate markets in the state showed increases over September.

October also marked the third consecutive month Mississippi home sales have surpassed last year for the same month, reports MAR President John M. Dean Jr. of Leland. "Partial credit for his increase in home sales over last year can be attributed to higher employment rates, slightly higher wages and lower mortgage rates," Leland said.

In October, the state's two largest markets, the Jackson area and the Gulf Coast, closed 359 and 218 units respectively, both showing increases over last month.

However, the areas showing the most impressive increases were in smaller markets like Corinth and Natchez, where October sales were more than three times September's numbers. Home sales in Hattiesburg and Tupelo, two medium sized markets, were down slightly from October 1996.

The Association's Home Sales Report also indicates that Grenada had a strong month, claiming the state's highest average selling price at $153,218 in October.

North DeSoto had the highest year-to-date average home sales price of $103,069. The lowest average home sales price was in Laurel at $67,572. Statewide, the 1997 year-to-date average selling price is $86,886.

The Mississippi Association of Realtors is the voice of real estate in Mississippi, representing 4,200 real estate professionals active in all phases of brokerage, development, appraisal and property management.

Statewide statistics

Mortimer named COO

Associated Press

Dan Mortimer has been named executive vice president and chief operating officer for Halter Marine Group Inc., the country's largest shipbuilder of small-to medium-sized vessels.

Overall, Halter Marine is the seventh largest shipbuilder in the country.

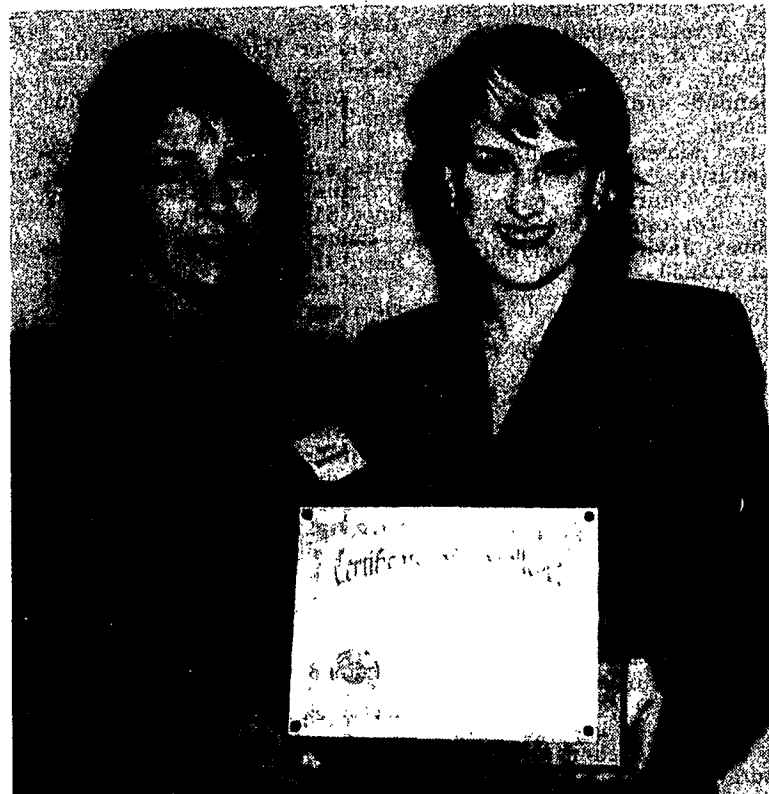

Mortimer will be responsible for the operations of Halter Marine's 20 shipyards and 5,900 workers in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida.

The announcement was made by John Dane III, chairman, president and CEO of Halter Marine. Dane said the duties of chief financial officer Rick Rees remain unchanged.

Mortimer is president of Gulf Coast Industries Inc., a holding company with interests in investments, commercial and residential real estate, heavy equipment and light manufacturing.

He was formerly chairman and president of Gulf Coast Fabrication Inc., a marine construction company bought by Halter Marine in 1994.

"The rapid growth of the company coupled with our increasing product line and construction backlog require us to maximize the productivity and efficiencies of our operation," Dane said. "His (Mortimer) presence will provide me with more time to plan and execute our long-term growth strategy."

10-THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1997

Bob Harmon Football Forecast

NFL Forecast
Thursday, Sunday and Monday,
Dec. 4, 7-8

Tennessee, 20—**Cincinnati, 13
(Thursday) In Week Seven, only 17,071 fans watched Tennessee end a four-game losing streak by punishing the Bengals 30-7 in Memphis. This will be the Oilers' first sweep of Cincinnati in four years.

Buffalo, 22—**Chicago, 10
(Sunday) The Bears have won four of the six games they've played against the Bills, most recently 20-13 in 1994. Buffalo can't do much on offense other than run the ball, but that's all it'll need.

Green Bay, 26—**Tampa Bay, 17
After taking an 18-point lead over the Buccaneers nine weeks ago, the Packers hung on to hand T.B. its first defeat of the season, 21-16. G.B. has won one of its last 10 against the Bucs.

**Jacksonville, 21—New England, 19
These teams last met in last year's AFC championship, when the Patriots ended the Jaguars' fairy-tale season, 20-6. Jacksonville will get some revenge despite its statistical inferiority.

**Kansas City, 24—Oakland, 7
On a Monday night in September, Elvis Grbac threw a 33-yard TD pass to Andre Rison with three seconds left to lead the Chiefs over Oakland 28-17. K.C. is 8-1 against the Raiders since '93.

**Miami, 19—Detroit 16
It's the pass — the Dolphins' only offensive weapon — against the run — the Lions' strength. Detroit's defense, though, will keep this contest close. Miami was a 27-20 winner three years ago.

**New Orleans, 28—St. Louis 21
In the first Dick Vermeil-coached Rams-v-Mike Ditka-coached Saints showdown on opening day, St. Louis ground out 403 yards of offense and won 38-24. N.O. hasn't beaten the Rams since '95.

N.Y. Giants, 21—**Philadelphia, 15
Also on opening day, the Giants let it be known they were back with a 31-17 win over the Eagles. Philly had won four in a row in this series, but N.Y. will add to a mini-streak of its own.

**N.Y. Jets, 27—Indianapolis, 12
In '96, the Colts took their fifth straight from the woeful Jets and went to the playoffs. This season N.Y. won its first game with Indy 16-12 and should continue the reversal of fortune.

**Pittsburgh, 23—Denver, 10
A possible AFC Championship preview? There are no better running games in the NFL, but only the Steelers can stop the run as well, so they may shut the Broncos down. They last met in '93.

**San Diego, 17—Atlanta, 13
The only standout unit in this matchup is the Chargers defensive line, which won't be challenged by the weak Falcons offense. S.D. will beat Atlanta for only the second time in six games.

**San Francisco, 30—Minnesota, 14
A possible NFC Championship preview? The 49ers are a good bet, but the Vikings have proven eminently defeatable. Minnesota's usually solid offense will struggle against S.F.'s formidable D.

Seattle, 20—**Baltimore, 17
Don't expect a lot of rushing in this game, which matches two of the league's top pass attacks — but only one of its top pass defenses, Seattle's. This is the first Seahawks-Ravens meeting.

Washington, 25—**Arizona, 12
Gus Frerotte's 40-yard TD toss to Michael Westbrook in OT gave the Redskins a 19-13 win over the Cardinals in Week Three. Arizona will pay for dousing Washington's playoff hopes last year.

**Dallas, 18—Carolina, 16
(Monday) Speaking of playoff hopes, the Cowboys will be scratching and clawing to stay alive in this one, which should be dominated by defense, because neither team is moving the ball consistently.

Middleton excels at Moorehead

Bay St. Louis native Nate Middleton and his football pals at Moorhead State University put the finishing touches on the 1997 season Sunday with a 30-21 victory over UW Stout at the 14th annual NSIC Metrodome Classic in Minneapolis.

A 5-9, 175-pound junior, Middleton led Moorhead State in receiving with 21 receptions for 392 yards and one touchdown.

He also rushed for 32 yards on 10 carries.

Middleton started his collegiate career at Moorhead State as a quarterback, but was relocated at wide receiver as a sophomore.

"He was just too talented to sit on the bench," said MSU offensive coordinator Bob Moran. Moran is convinced a larger role awaits Middleton in '98.

While Middleton has found a home of sorts at wide receiver, he may get a thorough trial at runningback next spring as the Dragons search for a replacement for departed rushing leader Grover Moore.

A football and basketball captain at St. Stanislaus, Middleton was a five-year football letterwinner. He was named to all-coast and all-district honor teams for three years and was a finalist for the Wendy's High School Heisman contest.

A vice-president of the prep National Honor Society, Middleton is majoring in finance.

Moorhead State finished 5-5 overall and 3-3 in the NSIC.

Title game set

ASSOCIATED PRESS — The Mississippi Class 5A championship game rematch between No. 1 South Panola and No. 3 Moss Point is set.

Toward Sanford led a trio of 100-yard rushers with 181 yards and two touchdowns as South Panola, the top-ranked team in the Mississippi Associated Press Top 20 poll all season, defeated No. 15 Madison Central 40-11 in a 5A semifinal game Friday night in Batesville.

The semifinals were completed in all five public high school classifications Friday, and all the state championship games will be played next weekend in Jackson. In addition to Moss Point, the other defending champions to advance were No. 2 Northeast Jones in 4A and Weir in 1A.

South Panola (14-0) had 447 yards rushing, including 154 by Kimario Hentz and 106 by Kory Chapman. The Tigers had TD drives of 99 and 96 yards.

Madison Central (10-4), which was in the 5A semifinals for the first time, had played South Panola closer during the regular season, in a 28-9 home loss in September.

Moss Point (12-1) overcame a 7-3 halftime deficit in its 5A semifinal game against No. 16 Natchez (11-3) when Francisco Kelly scored on a 3-yard run to cap the opening possession of the second half. The Tigers went on to win 30-13.

Kelly had 120 yards for Moss Point, which scored 20 unanswered points to build a 23-7 lead. Kevin Fant was 9-of-18 passing for 176 yards and two touchdowns.

South Panola and Moss Point will play in the Class 5A championship game at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Mississippi Veterans Memorial Stadium. Moss Point won the title 33-30 last year.

"Our kids have had that gut-wrenching feeling walking off the Memorial Stadium field last year in the back of their minds," said South Panola coach Ed Stanley. "It was a terrible feeling."

Moss Point, like South Panola, will try to win its third 5A title overall.

"This is what we play for all year," said Moss Point coach

CLASS 4A: Vernon Washington returned the opening kickoff 90 yards, setting up Lee Gavin's 10-yard TD run, as defending 4A champion Northeast Jones led from the outset in a 49-14 semifinal blowout of No. 10 Brookhaven.

Northeast Jones (12-0), which has won 26 straight games, rolled up 323 total yards in the first half and built a 42-7 lead. Gavin added a 44-yard TD run and sophomore Jermaine Jones had TD runs of 1, 59 and 81 yards.

Brookhaven (12-1) got within 13-7 when 244-pound sophomore fullback Aron Yarborough scored on a 1-yard run.

Rocks fall to Oak Grove, 63-59

BY RICHARD MEEK

St. Stanislaus' offense continues to list like a rudderless ship in open waters.

The Rocks scored only two points in the final three minutes of regulation time and were held scoreless in overtime in a 63-59 loss to Oak Grove on Tuesday night at SSC.

SSC, still searching for an offensive leader, took a 57-48 lead with 2:54 remaining on Paul Farve's layup following an offensive rebound. But Stanislaus followed with four straight turnovers and did not attempt a field goal until Honore Hazeur's desperation shot at the buzzer signaled the end of regulation time.

The Rocks' only points in the final three minutes came on free throws by Hazeur and Junior Davis.

"Someone has to step forward," Rock coach Jay Ladner said. "Inconsistent play is hurting us."

"No one has stepped forward," he added. "I don't know who it will be. I'm hoping someone does."

SSC, 3-5 overall, 1-1 in District 7-4A play, led 33-30 at the half. But the Rocks made only one of their first 10 third quarter shots and fell behind 38-35 at the 3:28 mark. During that same span, Oak Grove made only three of six shots and committed three turnovers.

Stanislaus made four of its next shots to take a 44-42 lead at the quarter break.

In the deciding final three minutes, two of the Rock turnovers came on bad passes and another when a player dribbled out of bounds.

SSC missed all six shot attempts in overtime and committed two turnovers. The Warriors, who struggled from the outside throughout the game, took a 61-59 lead with 2:25 left on Walker Thrash's layup, but followed with two consecutive misses.

With 16.1 seconds remaining, Eric Lamb put it away with two free throws.

The Rocks missed three shots in the final seconds.

Hazeur's and Davis' free throws were the Rocks' only points in the final 6:50 of regulation and overtime. In that stretch, SSC was 0 for 7 from the field and committed seven turnovers.

"It's frustrating," said Ladner. "We had some mental breakdowns, and other situations happen that should not have happened."

Davis scored 18 points and Farve 14 for the Rocks.
